MAKING OUR POINT

A New Year

Date: September 9, 1987

Time: 7:40 a.m.

The bell rang, lockers slammed, and conversation ceased. Students sprinted to first period class in an effort to sneak in the door before the teacher arrived. Another school day began and so did another year.

Talk of summer excursions and soap operas made up the first week of school. Interesting vacations, summer jobs, and parties were discussed in full detail to the envy of our school friends and to the annoyance of our teachers.

"I don't understand why she won't give us some free time. I mean, we haven't seen each other in 3 months."

Then the conversation turned to talk of school renovations.

"Did you see the new lobby?"

"It's really big, and the new gym is really impressive!"

'Yeah, I saw it on my way from the side parking lot to the front door."

"Speaking of the parking lot, yesterday I backed into a pile of stones and just about every day I've had to move my car to a different spot half a mile away from the front door. What a mess!"

At first disgruntled by the inconvenience of the construction, students soon viewed the changes with anticipation, and then with excitement.

"I can't wait until the new journalism room is finished."

"Yeah, and the new science rooms, too!"

"I'm really glad they passed that levy last year. We owe them a big Thank You!"

"Do you think people in the Toledo area are finally getting the point that Springfield High School is a great place to go to school?"

"If we've Made Our Point, they should."

Standing out from the crowd. Senior Jason Obregon cheers the Devil football team on at the Homecoming game against Anthony Wayne.

Seniors Wendy Snow, Carrie Rompf, and Angie Lord psych up for Spirit Week.

All Eyes on STV

On October 9th the Senior Class broke tradition and sponsored a Homecoming assembly that involved the entire student body. Seniors Jeff Crowell, Jim Hall, and John Patchett entertained the student body and the Homecoming attendants. Representing the underclassmen were freshmen Wendy Stark, sophomore Martie Griesinger and junior Brenda Baker. The senior attendants were Michelle Alderman, Kandi Borror, Leslee Emch, Kim Poupard and Lori Ward.

Many events made Homecoming weekend a success. Before the football game with Anthony Wayne, the students paraded through the village of Holland. At halftime each attendant walked across the field with her parents and passed under the swords of the Jr. ROTC Honor Guard. The highlight of the halftime activities was the announcement of the 1987 Homecoming Queen, Kim Poupard. Kim was crowned by last year's Queen Lysa Gott.

On Saturday night the National Honor Society sponsored the annual Homecoming dance in the south gym. All who attended enjoyed a night of dancing and fun with their dates and friends.

Mrs. Krieger, Homecoming advisor, felt that this year's Homecoming was one of the best she's ever advised. "I am proud of the seniors for putting together a Homecoming they felt comfortable with. Sometimes we forget that Homecoming is for the entire student body. Everyone had fun at this year's assembly. I think the seniors did a great job!"

all for the love of FOOD

"Cafeteria"

That innocent, nine-letter word has the ability to inspire fierce emotions in students ranging from blasé indifference to joyous anticipation. Junior Tiffany Albright explains, "I like lunch because the room is so big that I could watch certain people and they wouldn't even know it!"

Because of its social function and many other benefits, the lunch "hour" is anxiously awaited by faculty and students alike as a welcome haven for tired feet and rumbling stomachs.

With three menus offered, plus the ever popular junk food line, finding just the right thing to eat is never very hard. Salads, however, were temporarily eliminated from the lunch fare due to the skyrocketing price of lettuce.

Perhaps the second most popular use of the lunchroom is as an abbreviated study hall. By sacrificing her baked potato, a student has a full twenty-seven minutes to finish up last night's algebra homework or cram for the chemistry test next period.

But the one activity which everyone takes part in is talking. Lunch is the only time in the day where students can participate in loud, obnoxious, uninterrupted, non-punishable gossip. Around the plastic-topped tables endless weekends are planned, friendships are started, and good times are shared.

Shining through the blur of daily classes, the lunch hour is a time for making lasting memories and cherished friends.

Summer Adventures

Whether riding a roller coaster at Cedar Point, lying on a sandy beach in the warmth of Florida, or visiting a foreign country, the students at Springfield High School love a vacation. After working hard all year on seemingly endless English compositions and lab reports, students often look forward to three major breaks during the school year.

Christmas Vacation, Spring Break, and, of course, Summer Vacation provide a chance for relaxation and a much-needed release from the pressures of high school. Last summer, a group of French students travelled to England and France, and over Spring Break, Mrs. Slough took about 45 students to Germany. JROTC visited Ireland in March to participate in the St. Patrick's Day Parade, and the AP English class took a trip to Stratford, Canada to see the Shakespearean Festival. These trips, along with various other trips that students take with family and friends, are extremely helpful in keeping students in top form for the many challenges they must face during the school year. And besides, vacations are a lot of fun!

The Heart of Springfield

Love is in the air at SHS. Take a trip down the hallways and you discover schoolwork, friends, and grades are not all these students have on their minds.

You must admit school would not be half as exciting if you could not anticipate the news about that special guy or girl, or wait for that moment when you pass them in the halls.

Chemistry and English grammar are not the only difficult subjects in school. Relationships take hard work and patience, and they can teach you many things about yourself and others. Ask any of our couples and they will agree.

Jackie Purnell and Kyle Shalow share a special moment before their next class. Many students find the time to greet their significant other in the halls.

SCHOOL DAZE

"Buzzzz . . . Slam!"

"Oh man, not already. 5 minutes that's all, just 5 more minutes."

"John get up! You're going to be late for school again. If you miss that bus you'll have to walk because I'm not taking you."

"Mom, can I stay home? I don't feel very well and besides we're not doing anything today?"

"You better be out of that bed in 10 seconds or I'm coming up there and ripping those covers off of you!"

"I'm up, I'm up! Are you sure we don't have a delay?"

Springfield High School students began their day with the morning rituals of rolling out of bed and scurrying through the dirty clothes pile to find something to wear to school. Slowly reaching the next level of motivation, the students try to find enough time to scarf down some leftovers from the previous night. With barely enough time left, the students brush their teeth, put in contacts, and fix their hair.

"The demerits seem like a small price to pay for those extra minutes of sleep."

An Escape From Reality

"Hey dude, get with it. Wake up, the bell just rang. "Oh man, what did I miss? Did you take notes?" "Na, we didn't do anything new. Just went over work." "I had the greatest dream. I was soaking up the sun on the beach. I have my best dreams when I'm in school."

The glorious thought of catching up on sleep was too much for a lot of students to handle. A free day or class of review provided a good place to daydream and take a "catnap."

Many teachers got mad and took a lack of attention as a response to their lectures. Actually student daydreaming seemed quite natural and provided a much needed release from tension and pressure. It gave the students a moment to escape from reality and strengthen their subconscious minds. Sure!

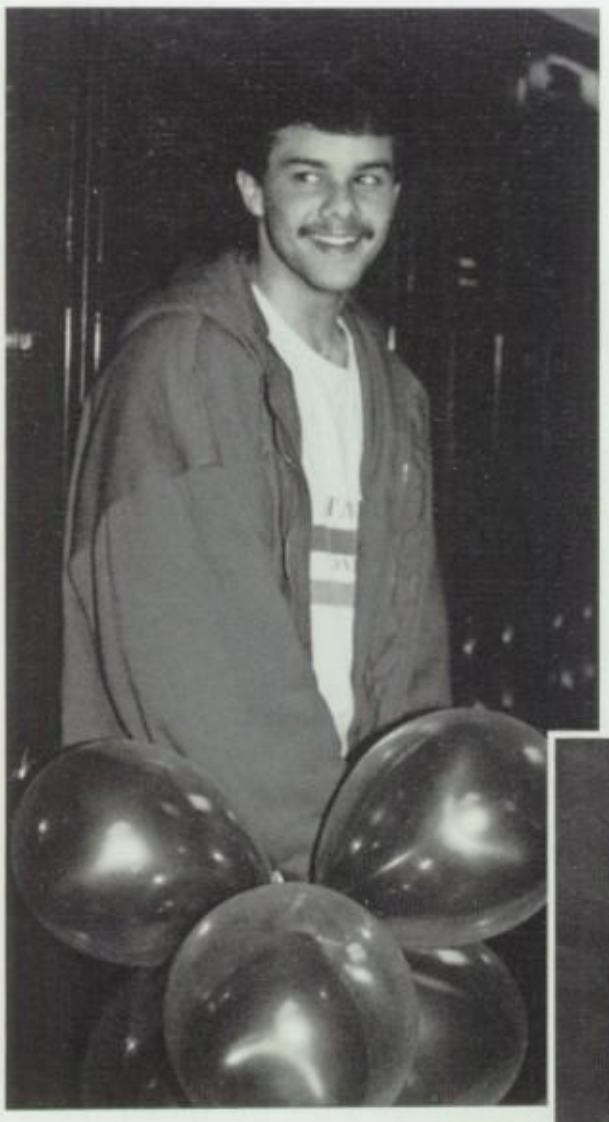
Hiding from light, this student buries his head and tries to catch up on sleep.

Junior Kim Hood resorts to stretching out on the floor in history class.

Looking Back

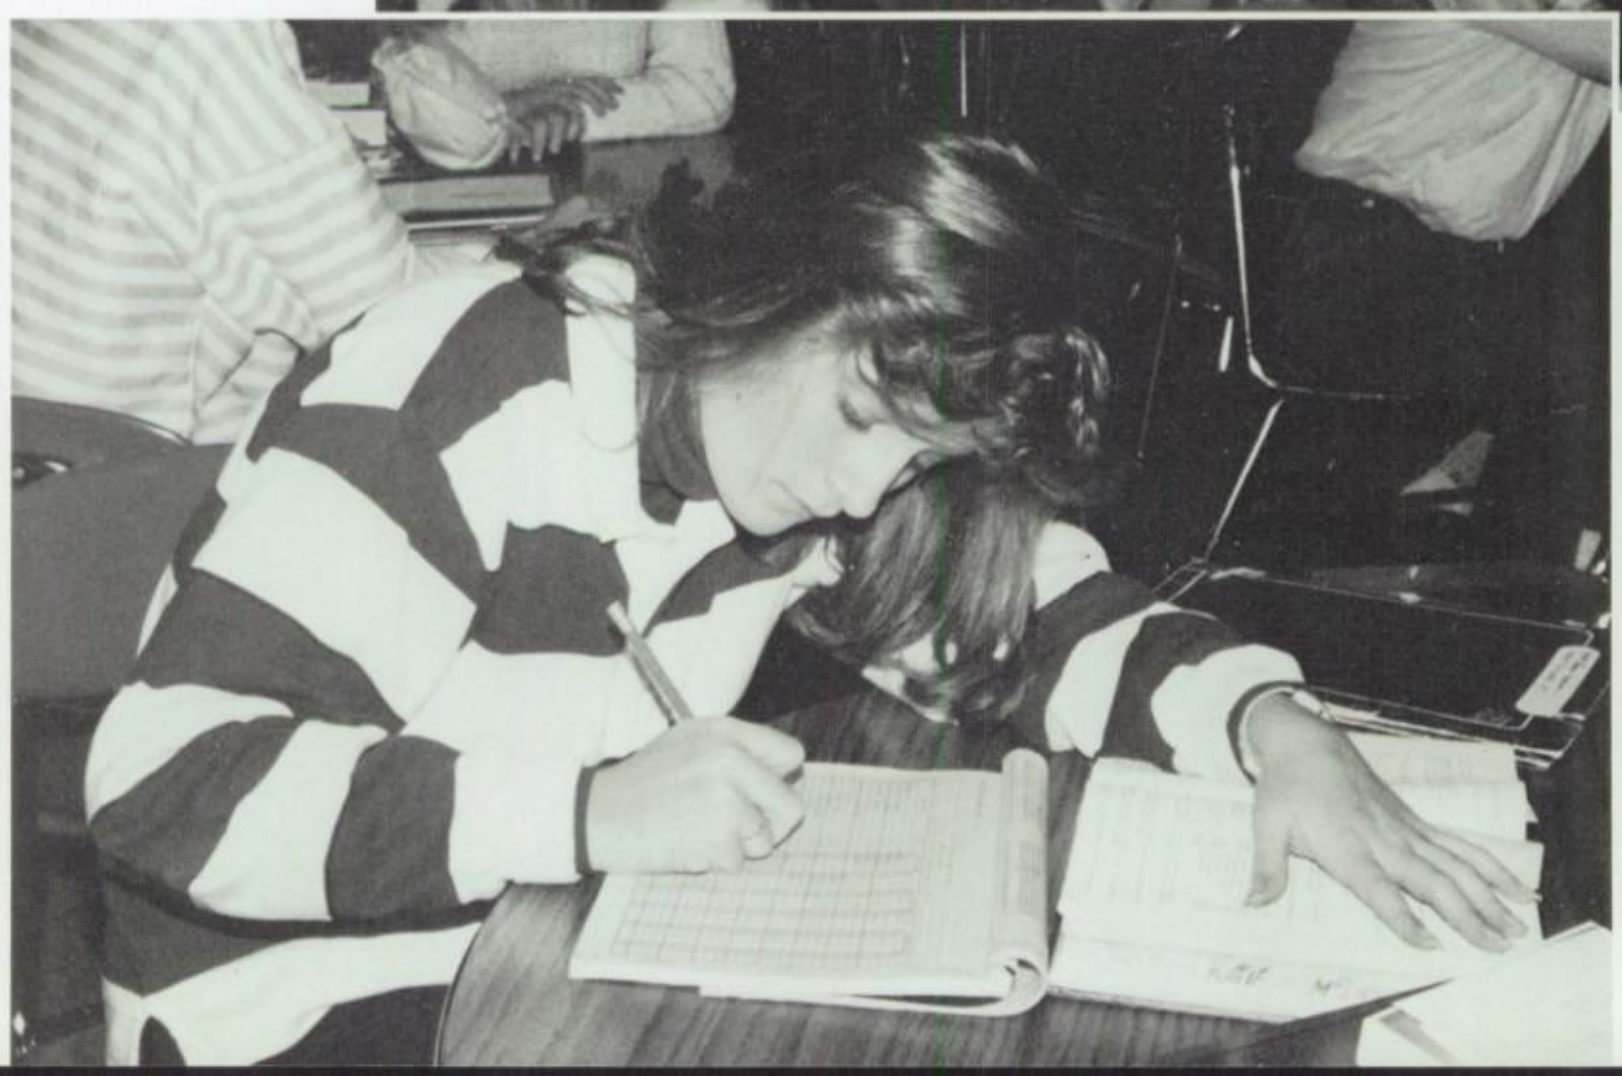
"You might not believe it but you'll really miss school when you graduate. Trust me, I couldn't wait to get out, but now I wish I could go back."

Back to the monotony of waking up at 6:30 in the morning, running to class as the bell rings, catching up on a little bit of sleep in third period. But when allowed to talk to friends it almost seemed worth being there. Almost. Courtyard privileges, spirit week, assemblies, football games, track meets, prom, graduation. Special, memorable events. Our senior year, a year we can never get back. We can only relive it in our memories. Good friends that stick through thick and thin. We won't forget anyone that has shaped our lives as much as our friends have, or as much as our teachers have. These people have made us what we are, and though they might not be beside us any more the thought of them will make us stronger.



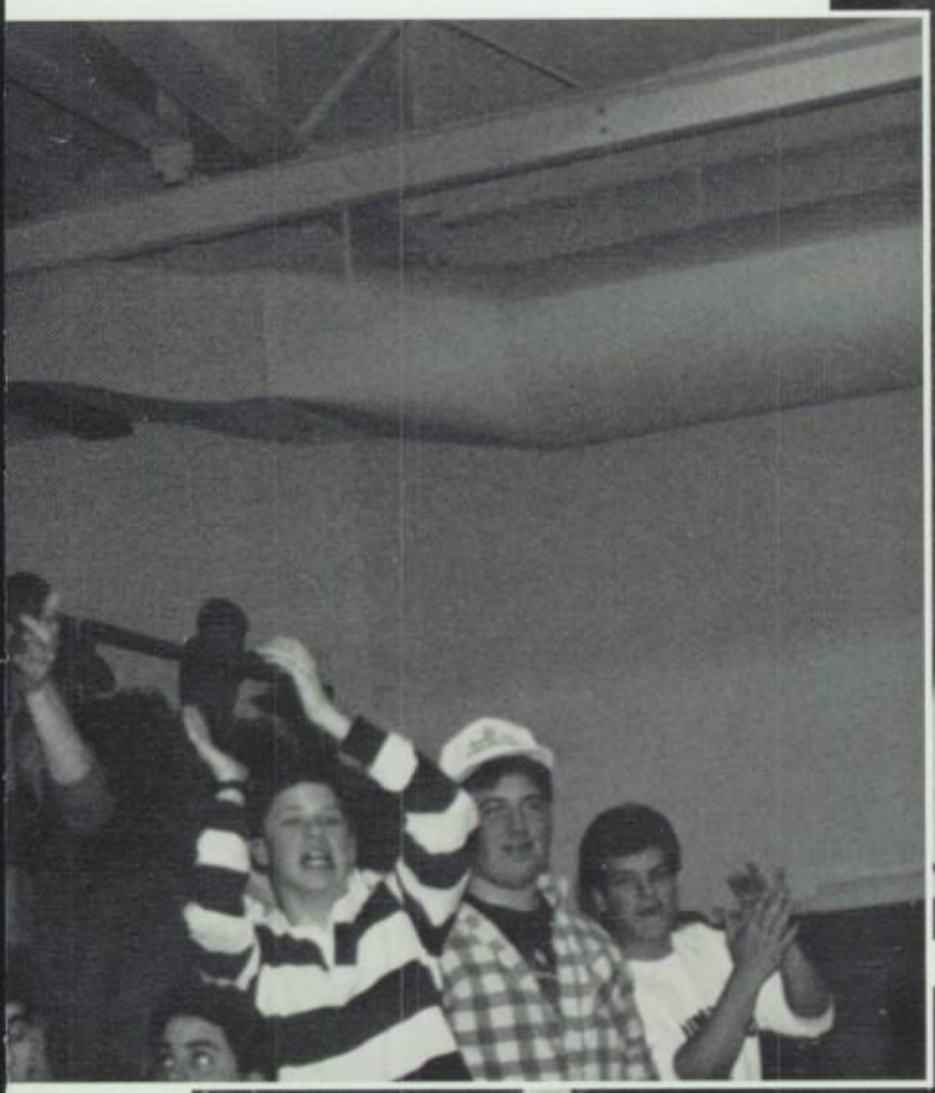
On Valentine's Day balloons were the specialty. Here senior Allen Lucio stands proudly showing off a gift from a secret admirer.

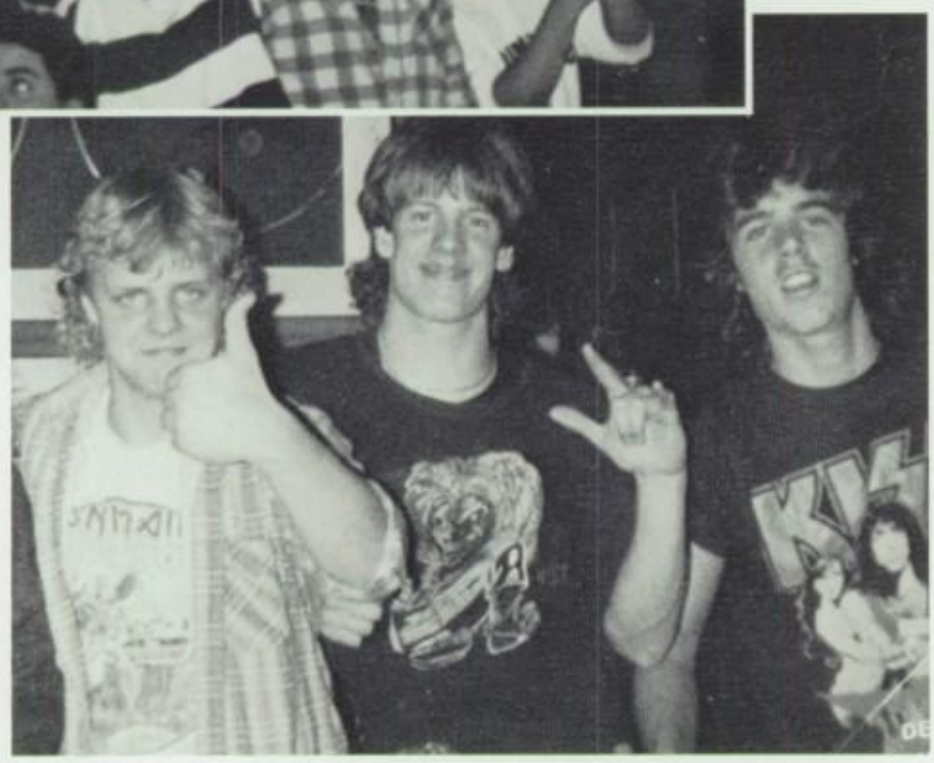
Senior Kelly Hauptman is intense on her Business homework. Grades were a major concern for some students.



Wendy Hartman and Jennifer Myers aided the football players as sport medics. An intense play causes them to wait with anticipation.

The senior class showed a lot of support for sporting events. A super shot causes these seniors to stand up and cheer.





Mike Young, Dan Shively, and Bill Petry enjoyed the White Lion/ Kiss concert. Many great shows came to town this year including Whitesnake, Guns and Roses, AC-DC, Richard Marx, and Aerosmith.

A Night To Remember

It was a beautiful night. The stars were out, and the moon was reflecting off the water. It was the perfect setting for the 1988 Prom. Senior couple Al Cortez and Kim Poupard had the honor of being chosen the king and queen. After an enjoyable evening of dancing and conversation, Prom ended. But the fun was not over, for the After-Prom party was immediately after the dance. The school was decorated quite appropriately to follow the theme of the party, "Carnival Cruise." Games, food, and prize drawings headed up the exciting evening. April 30, 1988 will certainly be a "Night To Remember."

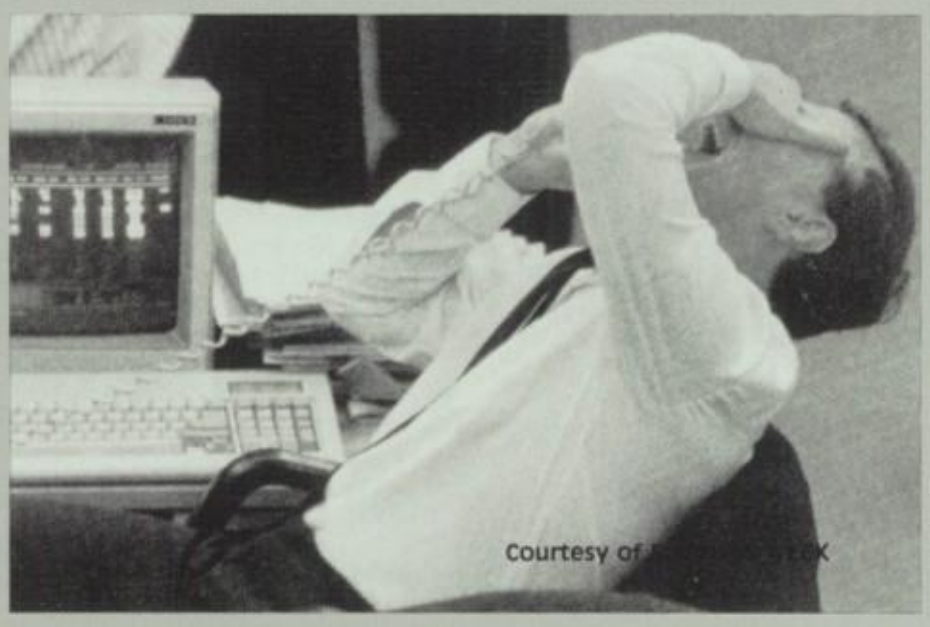
Black Monday



On October 19th, the Dow Jones Industrial Average dropped a record 508 points. The day quickly became known as Black Monday. Trading on the New York Stock Exchange became frantic, as over $500,000,000,000 was lost within a mere six hours.

Summit

On December 8th, President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev signed the historic INF Treaty during the third super power summit in Washington D.C. The treaty, which eliminates medium range nuclear missiles, was the first agreement by the two powers to reduce the size of their nuclear arsenals. "It is the largest arms reduction in history," President Reagan commented. In May, the President and First Lady plan a trip to the Soviet Union where more arm reduction talks will take place.

Winter Olympics

During the 1988 Winter Olympic Games in Calgary, there were moments of glory, and those of defeat. Even though the Soviet Union ran away with most of the gold, the U.S.A. made an impressive show of courage and determination.

During the games, American speed skater Dan Jansen fell twice, missing his chances to win the gold. Debbie Thomas, U.S.A.'s best hope for a gold in figure skating, faltered during her long program and had to settle for a bronze. However, in men's figure skating, Brian Boitano defeated Brian Orser of Canada by a narrow margin, bringing home the second of two golds for the United States.

Elections '88

When the race for the White House began, seven Democratic hopefuls and five Republicans began campaigning for votes. As state primaries were held, many candidates withdrew, including Gary Hart, who re-entered the race in December after withdrawing earlier over an affair with model Donna Rice. Senator Robert Dole halted his campaign, leaving Vice-President George Bush the only candidate for the Republican Party. On the Democratic side, Rev. Jesse Jackson and Massachusetts Governor Michael Dukakis are the only remaining hopefuls. The Democratic candidate will be selected at the National Nominating Convention this summer. The winner at the convention will face George Bush in the November elections.

Persian Gulf

The United States first became involved in the warfare between Iran and Iraq in the Persian Gulf in 1986. The Kuwaiti government had asked the United States for help in protecting its fleet, and we did not want the Russians to become involved, so President Reagan sent American protection. The waters of the Persian Gulf have become a mass of missiles and mines, and starting with the bombing of the USS Stark on May 17, 1987, the United States has encountered numerous perils during their stay in the gulf. Now the Democratically controlled Congress is questioning whether such a show of force by the United States should be permitted.

When the Toledo Zoo sought permission from the Chinese government for a panda loan, many people had their doubts whether Toledo would be chosen over other large cities. However, the idea became reality as the two pandas arrived on May 14th after their 9,000 mile flight from Shanghai. For their summer stay in Toledo, Le Le and Nan Nan resided in the Elephant House which underwent $1.4 million in renovations. Besides local visitors, the pandas attracted tourists from all over the Midwest throughout the summer.

Movies

The year in motion pictures produced a variety of films suitable for the many different tastes of the American moviegoing public. However, two of the year's films seemed to stand out above the rest. In the fall of 1987, the films Dirty Dancing and Fatal Attraction were both released to the public with critical acclaim. Dirty Dancing was a blend of music and dancing from the 1960's which made stars of Patrick Swayze and Jennifer Grey. On the other hand, Fatal Attraction was a psychological thriller which showed how having an affair can be both physically and mentally damaging to the individuals involved. By the spring, Fatal Attraction had been nominated for the Best Picture Oscar, the Dirty Dancing soundtrack had sold five million copies, and the two films totalled a combined box-office gross of $250 million in America alone.

Today, however, after nearly two years of construction, a sprawling network of restaurants, hotels, and a new shopping mall occupy the land. Spring Meadows Mall had its grand opening on May 14th. The configuration of approximately thirty-three specialty and food stores gave a whole new dimension to the intersection of Airport Highway and McCord Road.

Scheduling Crisis

On September 8, 1987, Springfield High School was crowded with students for the first time in nearly three months. It happened to be the day prior to the start of school, and every student was there for the same purpose. For the second year in a row, each and every student had the opportunity to choose his teacher, classes, and the hour during which to take his classes, through an activity called Arena Scheduling.

Early that morning, starting with the Seniors, students entered the cafeteria, paid their fees, got their pictures taken, and then proceeded through the crowds and into the gymnasium to schedule their classes. Each of the teaching departments had separate tables where students could sign up for the classes of their choice, and many students came in extra early so that they could help the teachers if they were needed. There were a few problems such as classes being closed, but overall the event was a success. However, some people did not speak very highly of Arena Scheduling. Sophomore Angi Wallington condensed her feelings about Arena Scheduling into one phrase: "Arena Scheduling was a mess!" Oh well, you can't please everyone.

Going to College? There's a class for you.

Test Prep is a new course offered to Juniors and Seniors, designed to prepare them for their college entrance exams.

During this semester class students work to improve their abilities in vocabulary, mathematics and geographical and natural sciences, by taking sample SAT and ACT tests. The Test Preparation class is new this year at Springfield.

The purpose of the course is to help students become familiar with the format and the material included in both the ACT and SAT tests. Another goal of the course is to help students feel more prepared and comfortable when they must face this crucial examination," comments Mrs. Dussel.

Besides sample tests, students also have the opportunity to increase their knowledge using "Skill Builders." These computer programs drill students on their reading comprehension, science, and mathematical skills.

Guidance Director, Mrs. Woods, suggests that students take the course for the following reasons: "Students who plan to attend college should plan to take either the ACT and/or the SAT tests. Every university requires that students submit the results of one of the tests. Some colleges will accept the scores from either one, but most require a specific one. All institutions of higher learning in Ohio and Michigan prefer that students submit scores from the ACT. Many schools consider the scores students earn along with the high school courses taken, grade point average, and participation in activities and athletics when they are evaluating students for admission purposes. Universities that admit all applicants often use the scores for placement purposes. Students who are interested in being admitted to a university that does not admit all students and students who are looking for academic scholarships may be able to increase their ACT and/or SAT scores. Consequently, their chances for admission and scholarships through self study of the many materials available in our library and/or by taking part in the semester class (Test Prep) that will be offered next fall for Seniors and next Spring for Juniors. Although the ACT and SAT are designed to test what students leave learned in 11 to 12 years of prior schooling, research is showing that scores can be improved through specific study in those areas that are tested."

Amy Hintz enhances her knowledge using "Skill Builders" during Test Prep.

Students work together to improve their abilities in those subjects covered on the ACT and SAT tests.

More Than Just A Look

When a person thinks of Jr. ROTC, green uniforms are one of the first things that come to mind. However, the cadets were involved in many activities this year besides wearing their uniforms. Fundraisers were held to help provide for the participation in four competitions, and to help pay for the drill teams' trip to Ireland in March. On April 23rd the Nelson Faught Memorial Drill Meet was held at Springfield where twelve first place trophies were earned. Many cadets took part in sports day and the annual trip to Cedar Point. Fifty-five students also had the chance to attend leadership camp during the summer at Ft. Knox or Camp Attebury. Under the leadership of Mjr. Gardiner, Sgt. Hinson, Sgt. Mjr. Myers, and student commander Sharon Blachowski, JROTC had another successful year.

ROTC Takes Emerald Isle

On March 13th the Jr. ROTC drill teams and parents began a trip they had long been looking forward to — The St. Patrick's Day Parade in Dublin, Ireland. After numerous fundraisers and long hours of practice, the group departed Detroit for New York City and then proceeded to their final destination of Dublin. After checking through customs in Dublin, the cadets waited with anticipation for the parade. However, before they marched, the cadets and chaperones began to experience true Irish culture. Besides meeting new friends and learning Irish dances, time was found to tour the Wicklow Mountains and Kilkenney Castle.

Then on March 17th, the drill team participated in the parade. Along with celebrating St. Patrick's Day, the city of Dublin commemorated its Millennium. The Color Guard led the Springfield teams followed by the Honor Guard, Grenadiers, and finally the Male Exhibition Team. As a result of their fine performance, the Jr. ROTC teams received a well deserved first place trophy in the small team division.

Before returning home, two days of sightseeing were spent in London, England. After a guided tour of the city, the cadets and chaperones enjoyed their free time by shopping, touring other historic sights, and dining in the Hard Rock Cafe. Many students and parents alike enjoyed the big city life of London.

After six exciting days abroad the cadets boarded their plane bound for the United States. Major Gardiner, a native of Ireland, felt the trip was a fantastic experience. "Many valuable lessons were gained. The students learned an important economic lesson with exchange rates, how to live without a car, and they cooperated with friends while living in small groups. Also the total organization of the trip was outstanding." The memories and experiences of this trip will surely last a lifetime.

Before their seven hour flight to Ireland, the Grenadiers wait to check in at Kennedy Airport.

After two exciting days in London the cadets pause for one last picture in their hotel before returning home.

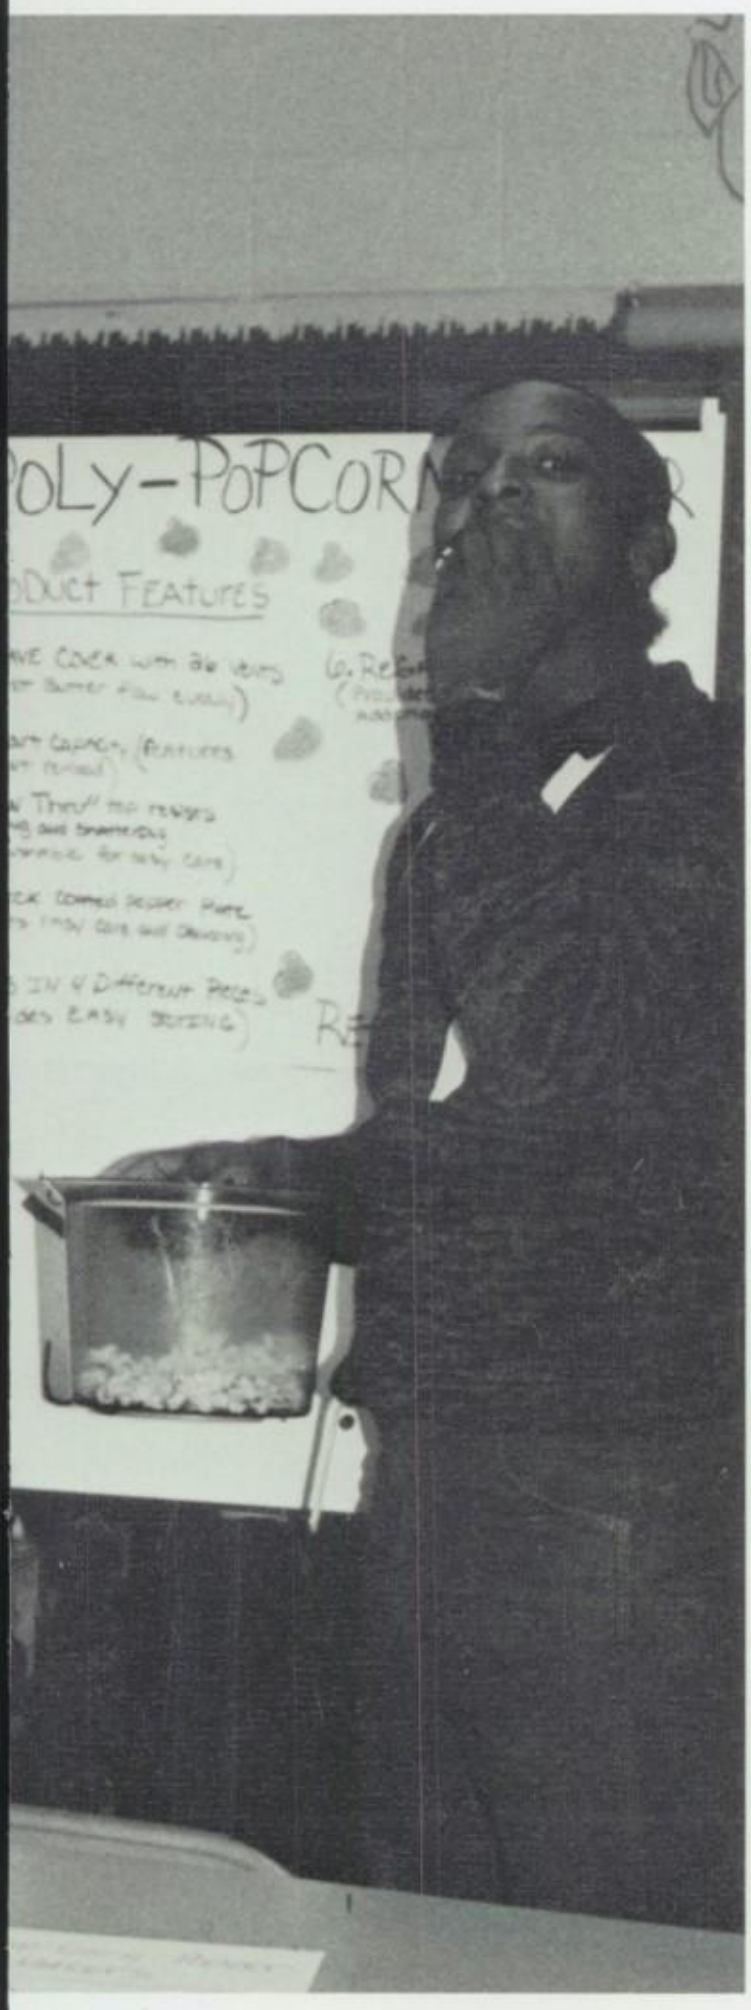
A HEAD FOR BUSINESS



Students of SHS can gain an understanding of the business and economic system through classes offered in the business department. The curriculum is designed to assist students to develop both marketable and personal business skills. In addition, an attempt is made to help students make wise consumer decisions in personal, business, and financial affairs. The business program is intended to help students make career decisions and give them an understanding of the economic rights and responsibilities of workers, managers, and the government. Some of the classes offered include: Typing, Accounting, General Business, Consumer Sales, Consumer Law, Word Processing, and Computers.

John Meadows and Jeff Edwards demonstrate their "popcorn selling" ability in business class.

HOME EC. COMES ALIVE

"Home Ecomomics has had a poor reputation . . . cooking and sewing. In the last fifteen years, there has been a great effort to change this." — Mrs. Maney

Perhaps some of the lesser known courses here at SHS are the Home Economics classes. Mostly catering to upperclassmen, this department offers a variety of different courses ranging from Survival Skills to International Foods.

In International Foods students learn about the cultures of other countries and how to prepare the most exquisite dishes that a country has to offer. Meal Management is also a class offered in the Home Economics department that helps to prepare students with knowledge of basic kitchen necessities.

Survival Skills I and II prepare the student with basic cooking, sewing, and parenting techniques. In Child Development students learn how to care for infant children and also about child abuse and neglect. Independent Living is for a student that has never been enrolled in a home economics class before. Clothing: Image and Impact teaches color coordination along with current marketing trends.

Housing/Home Furnishings is for students interested in interior design. Skills will be developed in planning and purchasing. Family Living, the final class offered in the Home Economics department, is designated for Seniors only. During this semester course the students take time to learn about different lifestyles. Once the students have had a chance to "get to know" one another it's time for them to take a wedding vow. A preacher performs the ceremony and within seconds the couples are married.

In the Home Economics Department at Springfield, Mrs. Fields and Mrs. Maney emphasize not only the aspects of family life, but also the special interests of individual students.

Art and Industrial Art

Learning Through Hands On Experience

They came from all corners of the school — each with his own reasons, some to advance their artistic talents, others to earn a much needed art credit. Art provided many students with an opportunity to release their creativity and escape from the "hustle and bustle" of everyday academic studies.

A wide range of projects kept the students enthusiastic and busy. From cutting and pasting to sketching and painting, students surprised themselves with their hidden artistic talents.

But classes were not all fun and games; reports were done on types of art, galleries, and well-known artists. For some an introduction to basic art elements and principles in Art 1 built to working with canvas and oil-based paints in Art 3 and 4.

Industrial Art appealed to an entirely different type of student but the results were similar. It also provided a release from school tension by allowing students to work with their hands. Both classes were successful and enjoyable because of the class participation.

Ms. Hense's Art 2 class worked on making advertising signs. Juniors Jason Zielinski and Matt Enis make abstract designs using bright colors and letter decals.

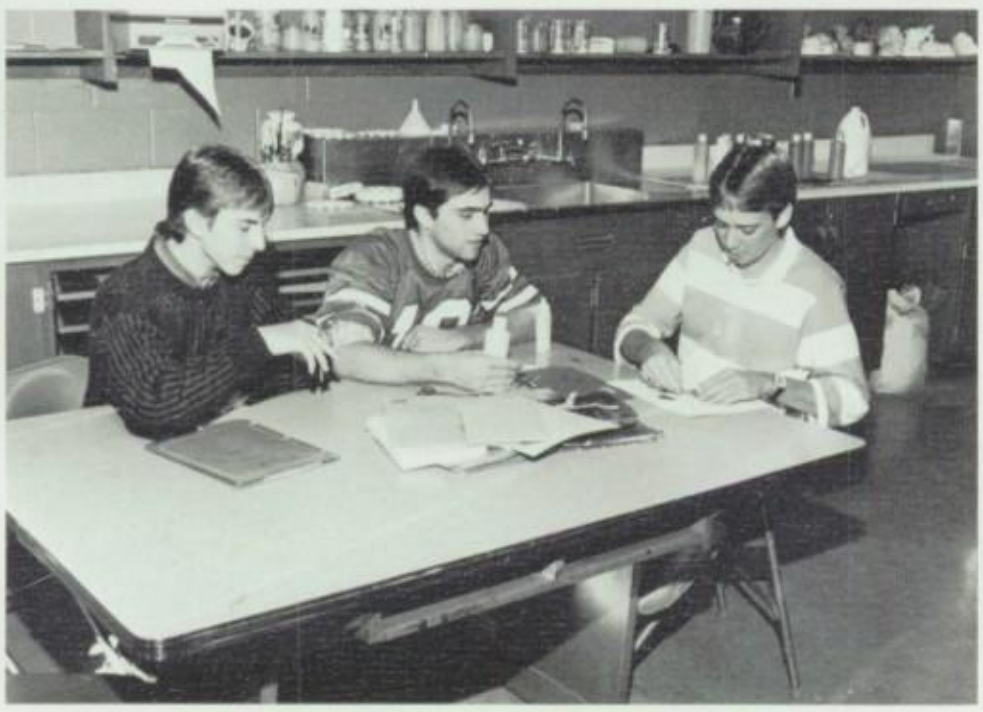
Senior Karen Pilaczynski gives her all for a unique drawing.



Combining their talents, Juniors John Wittes, Brett Scott, and Mike Dempsey concentrate on getting an A.

At the start of summer conditioning the year looked promising. Because the boys lacked size, this year's Blue Devil Varsity football team closed out the season with a 0-10 record. Even though the team concluded their season without a single win, they continued to play hard and show their Blue Devil Pride! The dedicated Devils continued to strive for success each game by never letting down. The motto "Desire . . . Determination . . . Discipline" held true for those team members who finished the season. At the awards banquet Joe Cullum received the Most Valuable Player award and placed on the league's second team. Al Cortez also received a place on the league's second team and was given an Honorable Mention for placement on the All-District Team, Al was also voted the Most Valuable Defensive Player. Receiving the Most Valuable Offensive Player award was Donnie Peterson. Mike Poling, John Morse, and Steve Buescher all received Honorable Mention for the league. The recipients of the Dick Siegel Award were Bob Simon and Al Cortez. Tom Minoske, Dan Shively, and Greg Whitlow all received a spot on the All-Academic Team.

The 1987 Blue Devil Soccer team, coached by John Gardner, concluded their season with a 4-9-2 record, finishing fifth in the Northern Lakes League. This years team was struck with many injuries, mainly to the starting players causing many young players to be moved into new positions. Even though they had players at new positions the team continued to play well throughout the season. "Our best game was against Maumee where we rallied to tie the game in the last ten seconds," said senior Nathan Sanders. At the banquet Rob Nash received the Most Valuable Senior Award. Also receiving awards were Ross France who was voted the Most Valuable Player, and received a spot on the leagues second team. Mark Faver received the Most Improved Player Award. Receiving Honorable Mention for the league was Phil Whisler. Making up the All Academic team were Todd Klausner, Steve Kaifas and Pat Schlagheck.

Intensity . . .

A squad of sixteen cheerleaders was chosen last May due to the School Board's decision to expand the group. The girls worked the entire month of June to prepare for camp competition at Findlay College. Their practice paid off; the girls took second place overall which qualified them for Nationals in Lansing, Michigan. After returning from camp, they made up a whole new routine including a dance to compete with at the Lucas County Fair. There the Varsity squad and the Freshman squad placed first. Once again it was back to practicing, but this time for the biggest event of the year, the 32nd Grand National Championships. The squad left in August to spend a week at the Sheraton Inn in Lansing. For the first time ever Springfield Varsity Cheerleaders competed in the large school division. The preliminary round which included two leadership cheers and two optional cheers made the girls eligible to compete in the final night competition. The squad finished tenth in the nation! As a combined squad they also competed at Portside and in a new Bloom Carol competition where they finished first. After a summer of sweat and many tears, they prepared for the football season, and later basketball. Throughout the seasons, signs were hung in the hallways and pep assemblies were used to help boost the level of spirit in Springfield. The girls sponsored the first dance, held a 24 hour rock-a-thon, and taught a clinic for grades 2 thru 6 to raise money for their new uniforms. The entire squad would like to thank everyone for supporting them during their season, and give a special thanks to their advisors Mrs. Kistner and Mr. Borror.

SHE-DEVILS VOLLEY FOR A VICTORY

The 1987-1988 Girls Varsity Volleyball team was definitely one of the most successful teams Springfield had this year.

The team, made up of nine girls, worked hard, putting in long hours of practice toward specific team goals. Most of those goals were reached. The skill level of each role player developed beyond pre-season expectations. Bruised elbows, knees and hips were proof of how hard this team worked. With 10 wins and 14 losses, the team was not up to normal Springfield tradition.

Team leaders Karen Barnett, Jennifer Tiller, and Rochelle Flayter.

At the banquet, held on March 21, 1988, awards were given out to certain members of the volleyball team. Most valuable player was given to LaNae Davidson, who also made 1st team in the league and All District. Most improved player went to Rochelle Flayter, who placed on the leagues 2nd team and on the All-Academic Team. Brenda Baker received an Honorable Mention for the league.

It was a season of jumping as high as you could, and of hitting the ground as fast as you could. It was the 1987-88 girls Junior Varsity and Freshman Volleyball Seasons, coached by Tammy Pasche and Tracey Hughes. It was a season full of emotional highs and lows. The thrill of victory is what kept these young girls in high spirits during the season. Most of the players agree that this year has been a wonderful learning experience.

Our Devil Hoopsters concluded their successful season with a 7-14 record. The team is coached by two very experienced and enthusiastic coaches, Coach Reiser and Coach Gast, who expect only the best from their players. "Coach Reiser and Coach Gast always expected 110% and we gave that in every practice and every game. "Sometimes we were so close to winning." said Jeff Crowell. With the theme "Intensity" the team always gave their best. It's a long road to victory and with a lot of crowd support, the team will only improve in the years to come.

Receiving awards at the banquet were Mark Koback for second team in the league and first team on the All-District team. Mike Sheidler also received a second team honor for the league and placed on the All-District Second team. Receiving an Honorable Mention for the league and a Honorable Mention for the All-District team was Jeff Crowell. Tom Nohl received an Honorable Mention for the league.

The Springfield Varsity Wrestling team demonstrated skill and determination which led them to victory throughout the 1988 wrestling season.

Improvement of overall skills was the main objective for the team to work on. Throughout the season, the wrestlers knew if they worked hard enough and did their very best, they could always win. Will power, concentration, and a desire to win were in the mind of each and every wrestler. Team leaders were Steve Borror with an outstanding record of 22 wins and 2 losses, and Joe Cullum whose wonderful record of 25 wins and 2 losses entitled him to enter the State Wrestling competition. These exceptional Senior wrestlers were named Most Valuable players at the wrestling banquet. Named Most Improved player was Trent Eichenlaub. His record this year was 24 wins and 9 losses.

Mr. Lewis is the team's head coach. He has been coaching 18 years and has been head coach for 4 years. Mr. Lewis says "Hard work in the off season will lead to a successful year"

The Cross Country team finished the season with a 7-5 record. The team placed fourth in league, they missed taking third place by only 3½ points. Brett Anderson described the season by saying the team's poem, "Cross Country isn't just a sport and isn't played on a court, Nike loves our Coach Norm because he has great form, we ran fast, ran to a dash, And next year say good-bye to that mustache.".

Leaving the banquet with awards was Chris Kloesen with the award of Most Valuable Runner and a spot on the All-Academic team. Jill Ray was given a Most Valuable Runner award too. The Most Valuable Runner award also went to Kevin Turner, who then received a spot on the league's first team. Placing on the league's second team was Bryan Schunk, who was also voted the Most Improved Runner. Given Honorable Mention for the league were Tim O'Riordan and Kerry Crouch. SEASONS

The Girls' Tennis team finished the season with a 6-5 record. Coached by Mr. Wallington, the girls' tennis team placed fourth in the league.

Taking home awards at the Banquet were Angi Wallington for the most valuable player, a place on the league's second team and special recognition for being the first Springfield tennis player to place third in Sectionals which qualified her for district competition. Angi was also League Runner-Up at number one singles. Michelle Kopitke received a spot on the league's second team as well as being League Runner-Up at number one doubles with Tiffany Jordahl. The most improved player award went to Tiffany Jordahl who also placed on the league's second team. Leslie Kohli, Shelley Tryc, and Jacki Higgins were all on the Academic Team.

Together We Did

The 1987 varsity softball team, coached by Eunice White and Richard Jackson, ended their season with an overall record of 21-6. The team's league record was 14-2 which led them to a League Championship. Four players won league awards and two players won district awards. Congratulations to the 1987 varsity softball team.

A young varsity softball team took the field for the "She Devils" this year. The only three returning lettermen were the senior captains: Karen Barnett, Jennifer Myers, and Stacy Wallace. Early in the season, key injuries slowed the team's progress toward finding a winning combination. The team ended its season with a 7-7 record and a 4th place finish in the league. The team was also Sectional Champs with big wins over St. Ursula, 28-6, and previously undefeated Maumee, 18-9. The following players received awards: Michelle Kopitke and Dana Rose, the Scholar Athlete Award; Karen Barnett, 2nd team All District; Lisa Yates, Honorable Mention All District Jennifer Myers, team MVP; and LaNae Davidson, team MIP. Miss White would like to congratulate the seniors and the underclassmen.

Overall, there were fifty-two young ladies playing softball this year. There were two JV teams competing in a total of twenty-eight games. Great strides were shown by the young players as they learned the fine points of playing fast pitch. The future continues to glow brightly for our softball players.

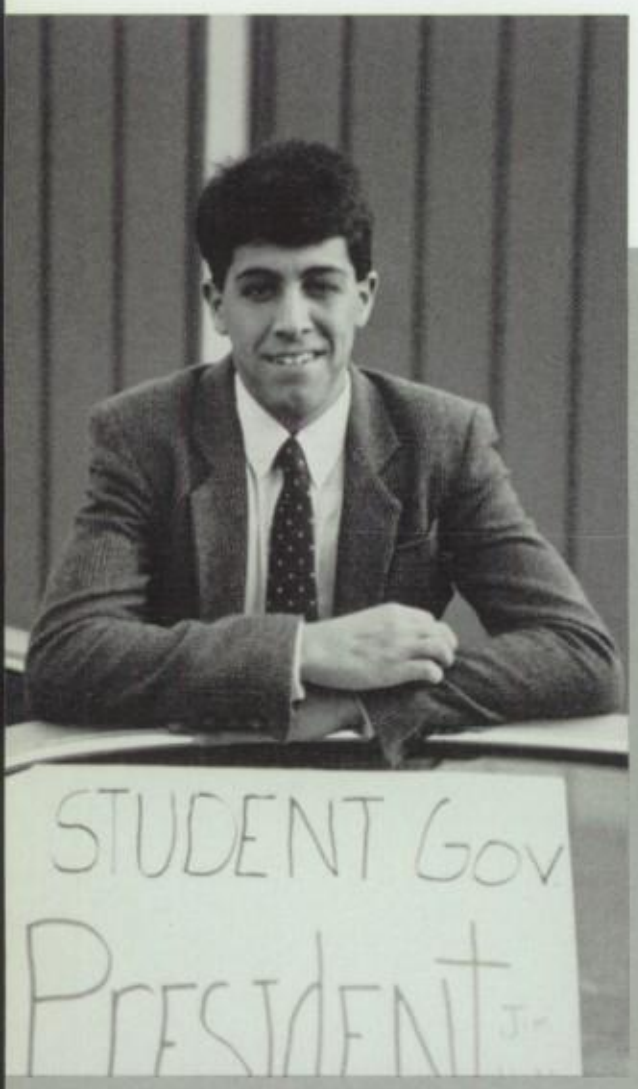
INFLUENCING FIGURES

Student Voice

As the driving force behind Spirit Week and S.H.S.'s student voice, belonging to Student Government is both an honor and a privilege. As a representative group of the entire student body, they must meet and decide on ways to raise Springfield spirit and improve the school as a whole.

Senior Jim Hall was elected president by the student body.



Mrs. Irons and Ms. Archer led the representatives to a successful year.

D A D S Members lead the Way

The latest organization to hit the scene at Springfield and cause a great impact in the process is D.A.D.S., DEVILS AGAINST DRUGS. And WOW, what an impact! As the proud sponsor of many post-game dances, D.A.D.S. has taken the initiative in showing students the danger of drugs, and the alternatives to alcohol. Countless meetings, posting signs, and preparing dances were just a part of the job of being in D.A.D.S.

"We want to get everyone involved. It's not just for the goody-goody students, it's for all of the students at Springfield." — Sophomore John Meadows

"We tried to give a lot of support to students going through hard times with drugs or alcohol." — Senior Leslie Kohli

"It's a great organization. I wish more students would get involved." — Senior Dory Ellis

MEMBERS ONLY

The Chosen Few

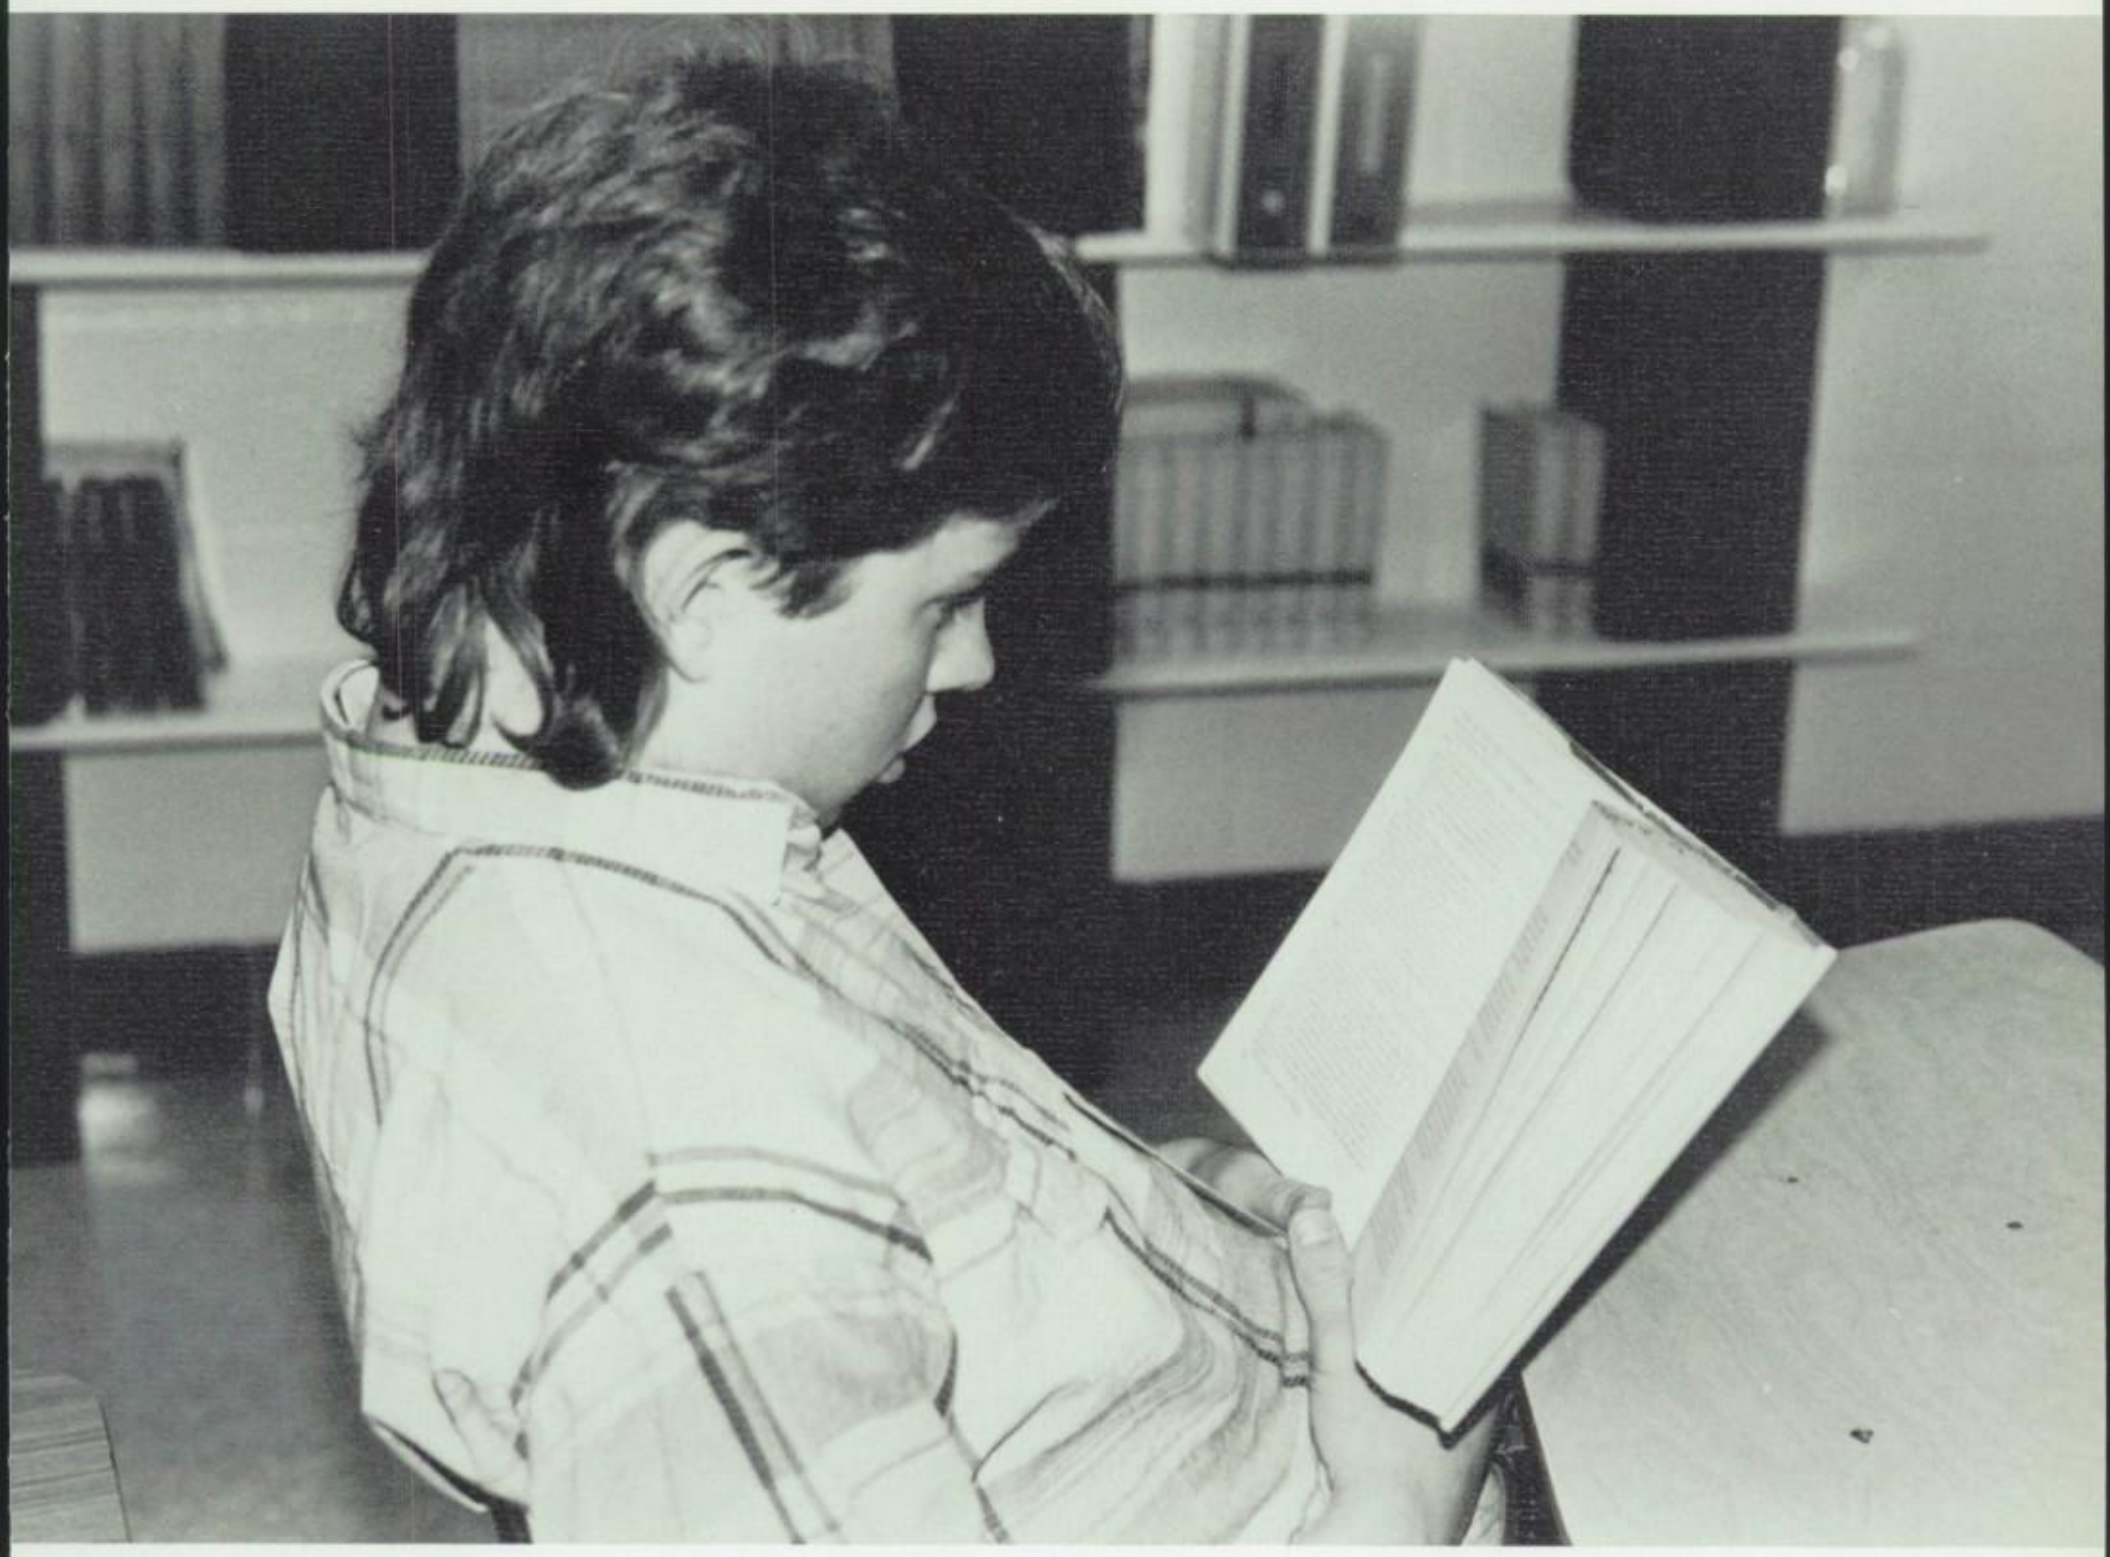
High academic standards and school involvement are only two of the requirements that must be met to be selected for National Honor Society. An important part of Springfield, N.H.S. sponsors car washes, a slave day, and tries to raise spirit. Money that is raised goes to a National Honor Society Scholarship Fund and is given to seniors who meet set requirements. N.H.S. also sponsors an annual inductee ceremony held out of school.

Those nominated for consideration by N.H.S. must have a 3.3 grade point average and must participate in school activities.

A member of N.H.S., Senior Brian Hall concentrates on a good book.

National Honor Society meets regularly to discuss their events of the month and to organize social events.

A new group, the Secret Association of Spirited Seniors, is selected at the beginning of the school year to boost school pride. They remain nameless till the end of the year.



Varsity "S" is one of the largest clubs at S.H.S. and is made up of students with varsity letters. At meetings they discuss the purchase of "letter sweaters" and activities to unite the club.

THE FUTURE

Working For The Future

Such clubs as FMCA, FTA, DECA, and Drama prepare S.H.S. students for the future. The members of these clubs all have one thing in common . . . that is to be the best in their field. Whether it is medical, teaching, business, or performing, members strive to achieve their goals. These clubs are the building blocks in helping students to reach these goals.

Changing Directions

"We're making a lot of changes this year. We think they'll be for the better." This was the sentiment of Senior Editor Dawn McIntosh and the entire Trident staff.

The addition of more stories, a variety of pictures, and a few new ideas made working on the Trident both difficult and exciting.

"We had a problem getting started, but once we did the book came pretty easy."

Changing the arrival date enabled the staff to put prom and spring sports in this year's book and gave them more time to work on the book in general.

A new publications room shared with the newspaper staff, also made this year an exciting one.

"We like the new room but it's too late for us to really enjoy it. I'm sure next year's staff will make good use of it."

Junior Tony Facemyre writes copy for a story on teachers. You can see the end result in the faculty section.

DEUTSCH KLUB MACHT SPASS!

German Club has over 100 members this year. Their first activity was to elect officers for this school year. In October, German Club and Foreign Language Club enjoyed an afternoon of fun at Secor Park. Members played football, baseball, croquet, and took walks.

In December, the members of German Club rented Aquarius and played racquetball, swam, and relaxed in the whirlpool. January found them traveling to Mt. Holly for a day of skiing and then going to Pokagon State Park to toboggan. Another racquetball party was planned for March, along with other summer activities.

Taking an active part in Springfield, the German Club celebrates its second year at S.H.S.

A fun day in the park shared by German and Foreign Language Clubs.

The Foreign Language Club is long established and a big part of S.H.S.

ACADEMIC CLUBS

Adventures in Literature

In the four years that the Junior Great Books Reading/Discussion Program has been at Springfield High School, the discussion group has earned an exceptional reputation. The group has changed leaders several times and expanded to twice its original size. According to senior Amy Myers, "We've become a big family and we can freely express our opinions because we know someone will listen to us and respect our rights to free speech. Even though we don't always agree with each others' opinions about a selection, we listen to what is said. We are the true spirit of the J.G.B. Program."

Solving "brain-teasing" dilemmas, Academic Decathlon is led by Mrs. Ingersol.

Tony Facemyre, Mike Penrod, and Jason Thompson compete in High School Quiz Bowl with the help of Ms. Bowers.

Mrs. Beekley meets with the Senior Jr. Great Books Club and discusses an earlier reading.

Representing Springfield at Buckeye Girls' State last summer was Senior Amy Myers.

Junior Great Books divides into two separate discussion groups — underclassmen and seniors. Both meet once a month but read from different books.

BAND

Tri M members excel in their musical fields.

Jason Massingill, Jeff VanDromme, Ersuela Martinez, Jamie Bundy, and Ron Ford concentrate on playing their best at the assembly.

Springfield Swings

The Springfield High School Blue Devil Band has been an active organization during the 1987-1988 school year. Last August the band spent one week in Michigan for band camp. This was a lot of hard work, but a lot of fun time was had by all band members. As the school year began, the band performed at all football games, playing new music and doing new drills on the field.

The next step for the band was concert band. Much work was done in preparing music for a Christmas concert, midwinter concert, and the Spring Arts Festival. Various members of the concert band participated in solo and ensemble contests and represented the school with pride and a good showing with ratings. Other members played at all home basketball games as a pep band.

In the spring preparations continued for marching band, and they traveled to Holland, Michigan for the Tulip Festival Parade. Even though the school year has ended, the band will continue to practice through the summer and perform at many parades in the Toledo area.

Concert Band members were active throughout the school year.

During an assembly the band provided entertainment and enthusiasm.

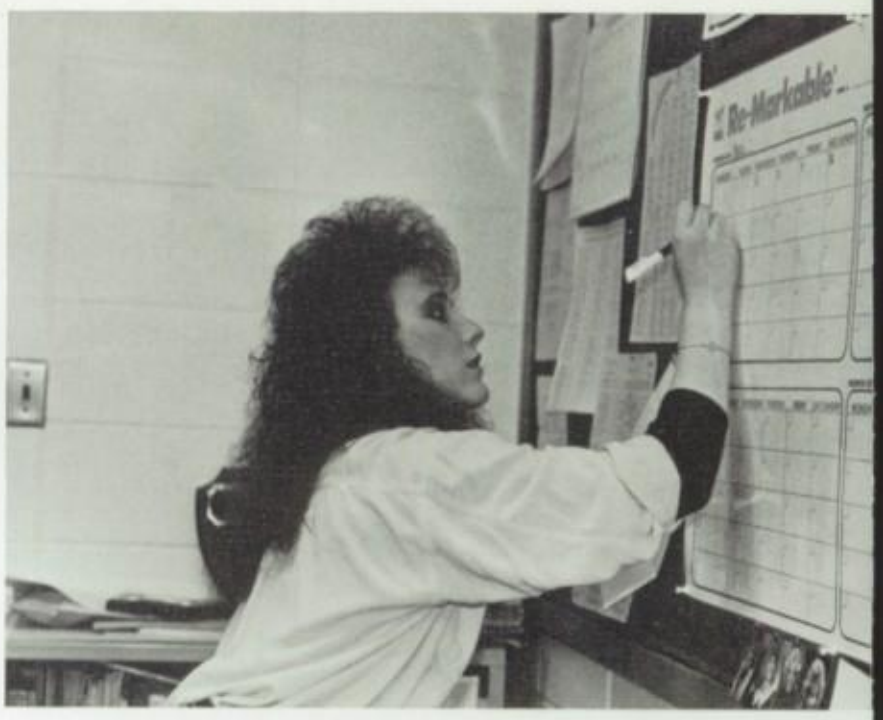
Mr. Kidd has done an exceptional job motivating the students to participate in the music department.

Spirit was expressed through the voices of the choir members.

The Marching Band marched their way to a successful season.

Another section of the Music Department was the Stage Band.

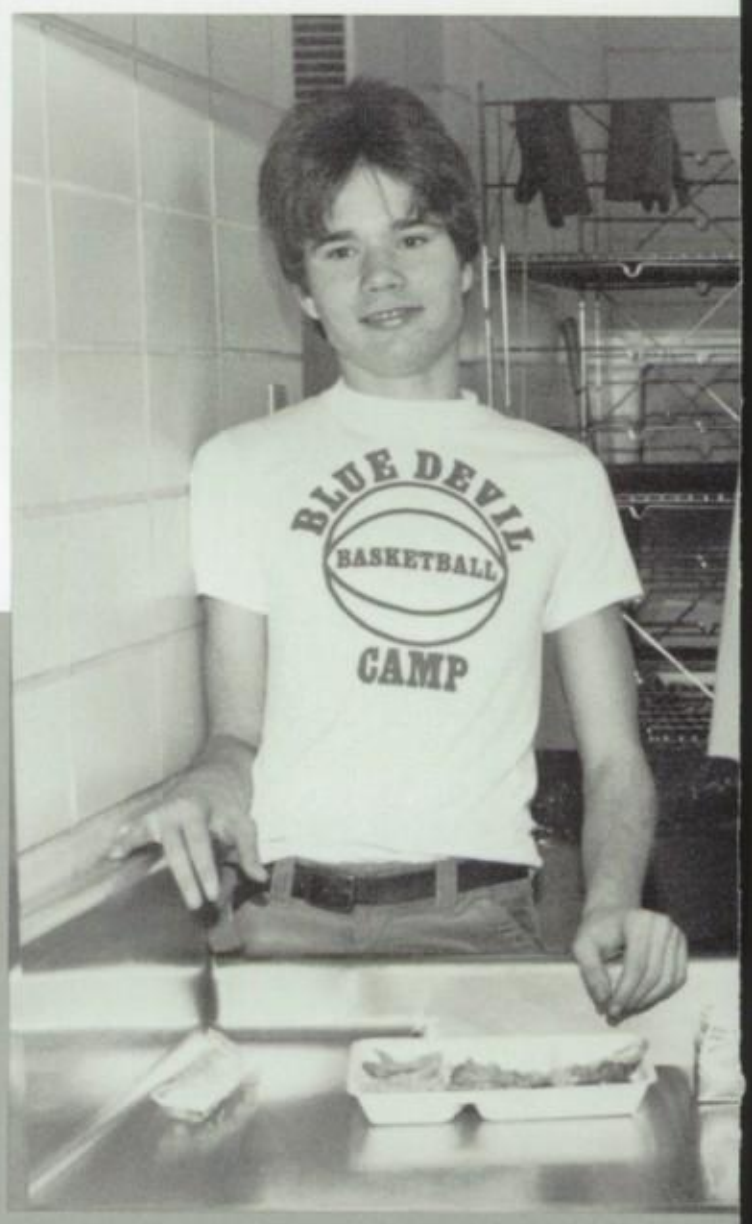
STUDENT HELPERS



Taking care of a majority of library duties, workers sacrifice a study hall to help Mrs. Bradley.

Jenni Kaltenbach, senior, helps organize Mr. Cunningham's calendar.

Rushing to the aid of our office staff, student workers help to run errands.

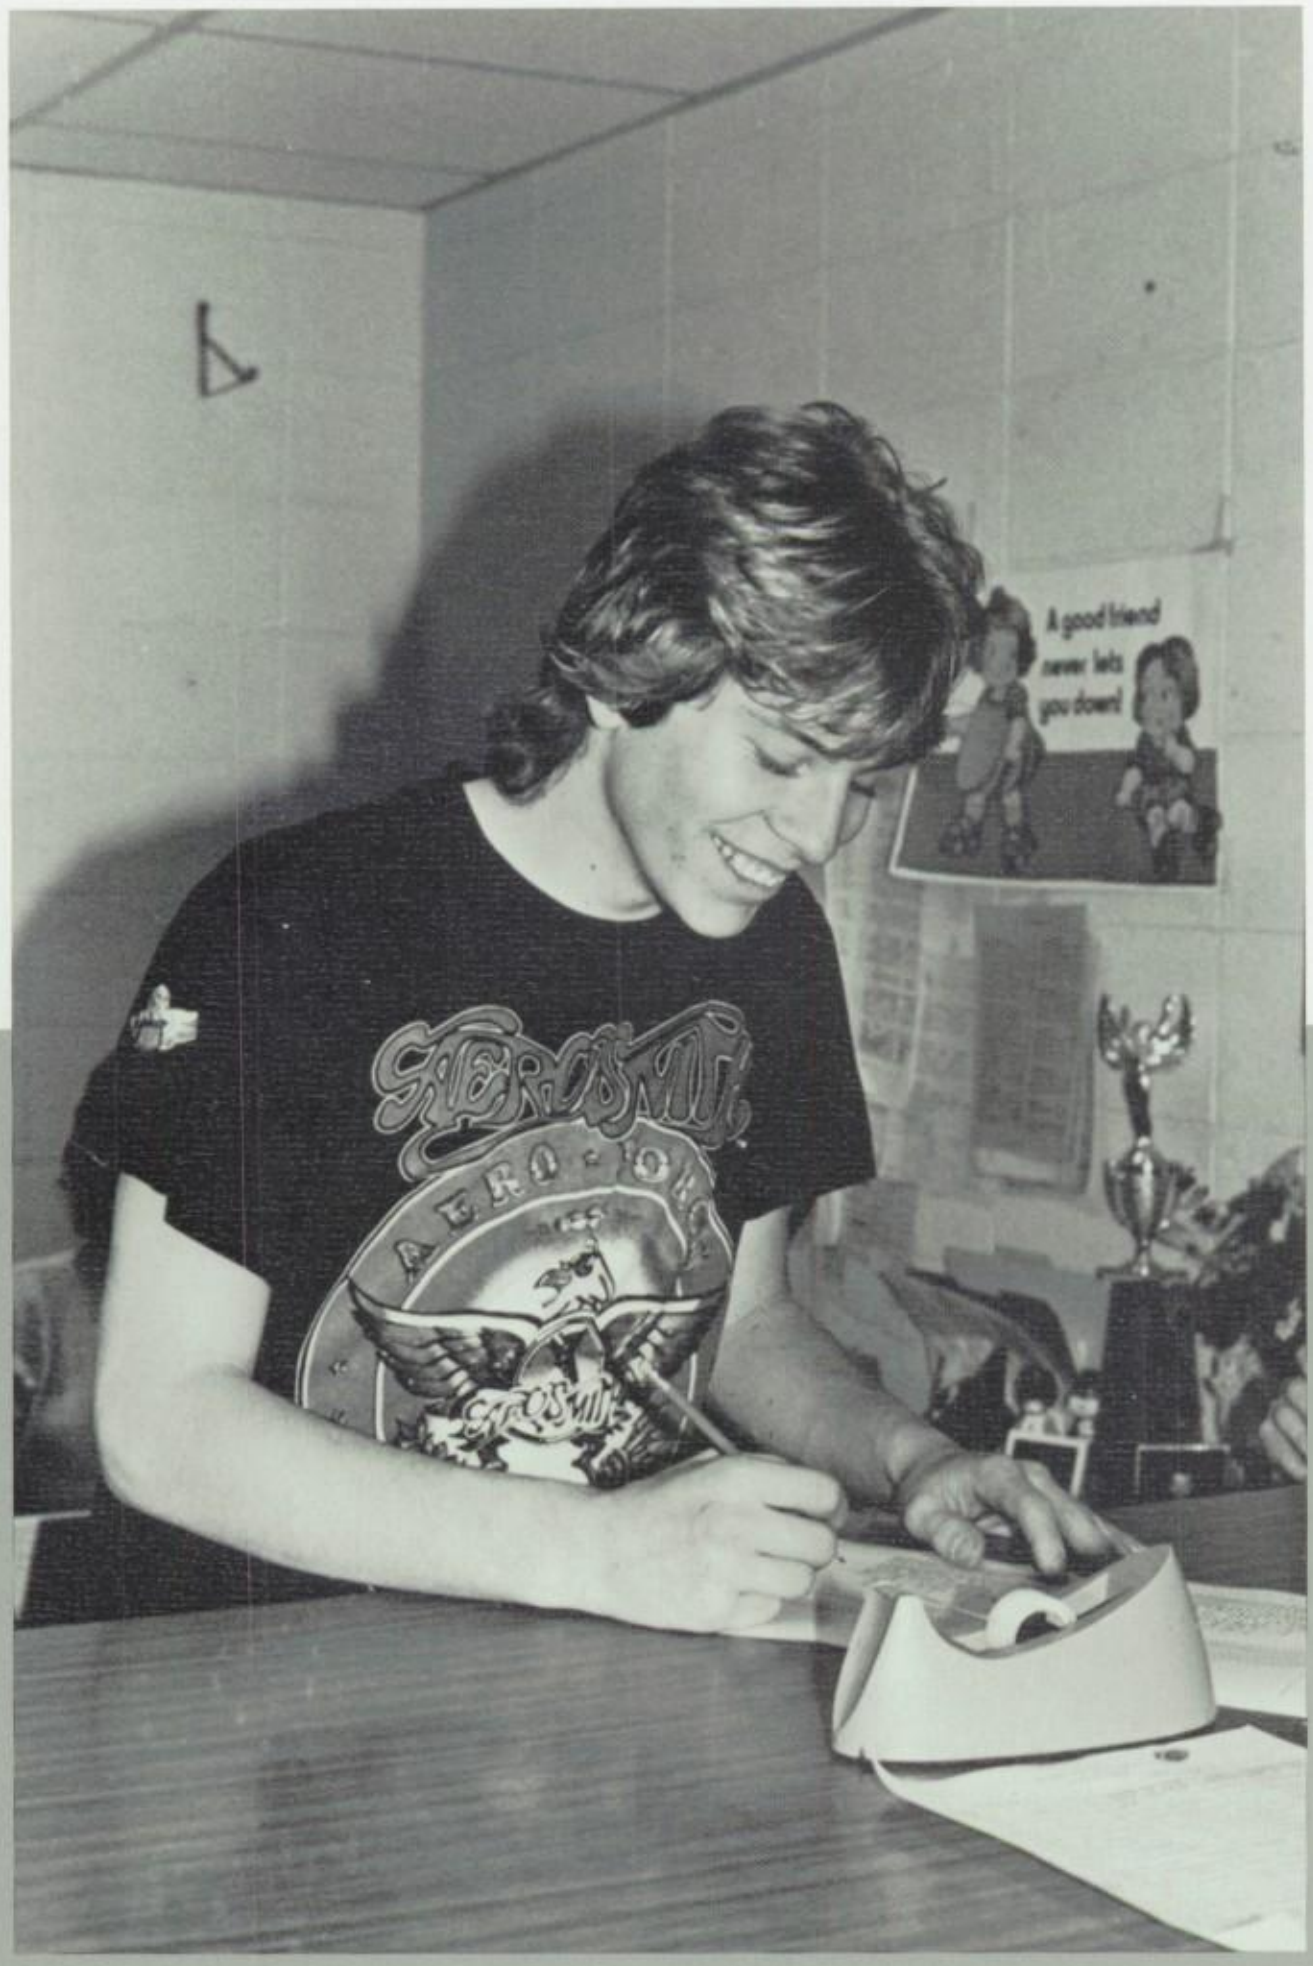


Mike Ray works in the cafeteria serving food and keeping the kitchen clean.

Taking attendance and keeping track of equipment is the gym assistant's main duty.

Running the School

From collecting attendance cards to stacking books, Student Helpers keep the school running. Without the help of many students, the offices would be in a constant state of havoc, with secretaries doing the 50 meter dash from one room to the next. The sacrifice of a study hall and possibly a little bit of a helper's sanity is all that it takes. On the other hand the library workers have a more relaxing job. Peace and quiet are the main objectives, and they are usually upheld. But, different from all the rest, cafeteria workers have a very unique job. They get hands-on experience in a field that actually has jobs available to students. All students have a great time and learn a lot about responsibility along with helping to keep the school running.



Cafeteria workers maintain order in the lunch room and help get food out on time.

Informing us is their main responsibility, but along with this, they wake us up in the morning — third period to be exact. Jenni Kaltenbach and Rich Currey did their own version of "Good Morning Springfield."

PEOPLE
Individuality

The student section loudly cheers on the players at the Homecoming game against the AW Generals. Students and teachers alike showed support for the team.

Juniors show their "sweet" spirit by displaying their spirit banner during the traditional spirit week assembly. This particular banner was chosen as the best out of all the classes.

"Go Blue!" "Go White!" This is the traditional competition cheer involving all students to help demonstrate their spirit for the school.

Juniors Dominate Spirit Week

Anticipation filled the air; enthusiastic students sat on the edge of their seats. Mrs. Irons approached the microphone and a hush fell over the gym. The results of Spirit Week were in: fourth place, Freshmen; third place, Sophomores. The question remained, will the Seniors win again? The announcement came: second place, Seniors. The Juniors won! "Well, what can I say? It's about time. We deserved it!" exclaims Junior Mike Anderson.

How did the Junior class accomplish this goal? The class of 1989 achieved this feat by pulling together as a whole. "Juniors worked together and turned out the "sweetest" of all," boasts Kim Irons.

Although there can only be one winner, Spirit Week is a chance for each class to show their pride in themselves and the school. "It was a great week (Spirit Week) for students and teachers to really get involved in school," comments Junior Joe Lubinski.

Juniors Kathy Wiener, Shannon Griffin, and Lisa Yates exhibit their winning spirit, showing confidence that they will come out on top.

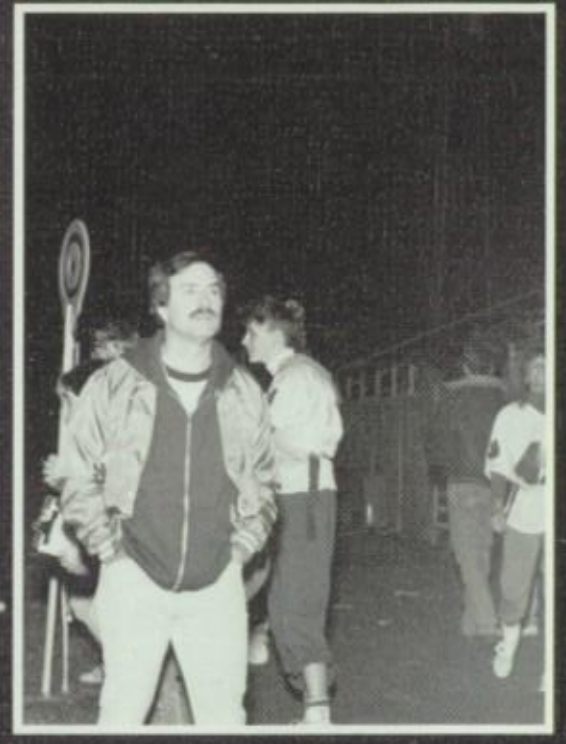
Powder Puff



On a cold November Friday night the Juniors challenged the Seniors in the Annual Powder Puff football game. Senior coach Kevin Maney and Junior coach Andy Pease had their teams fired up. Spirits were somewhat deflated, however, as the game ended in a 20-20 tie. Stars of the game were Junior Kim Hood and Seniors Karen Barnett and Jennifer Tiller.

The Sophomore Class officers are: (from L. to R.) Lanae Davidson, Treasurer; Jennifer Makulinski, Secretary; RaeJean Polca, President; Mr. Maney, advisor; and Nicole Delucia, Vice-President.

Carrie Hinz and Jill Baker dig deep into their locker in search of what seems to be the only thing they can't find.

The sounds of voices, the slamming of lockers, and the ringing of bells have all ceased, and the halls become quiet and peaceful, finally.

Home Sweet Locker

Save, decorate, procrastinate. It seems as though lockers are a kind of home for some students. Many have everything but the kitchen sink. There are some students who think their lockers are some kind of scrapbook in which they save all their keepsakes from the months past. And there are those who have a hard time distinguishing their lockers from garbage cans. Absurdly enough, there are even those who use their lockers only for the purpose of storing their books, folders, and coats.

Sharing a locker is another issue. Many students have two, three, or a locker in every hall, making it easier to get to each class. Boyfriend-girlfriend lockers are a cute arrangement for many couples and make a good excuse for couples to see each other every period.

Whichever situation a student falls into, we all can say our lockers are a kind of "home away from home" during school.

This locker holds such keepsakes as pictures of close friends and emblems of colleges this person wishes to attend.

This locker displays its owner's love for such rock groups as Whitesnake, Europe, and Bon Jovi.

Scott Oberhouse diligently works on his Shop I project.

Start Of Something New

As the Freshmen walked into the high school on September 9th they faced many new challenges. The uniqueness of arena scheduling the day before brought much frustration to the Freshmen. Unfamiliar classrooms, teachers, and faces greeted them. Thoughts of being picked on by the upperclassmen entered their minds. When the opening assembly began, confusion about where to sit and what to do prevailed. When the bell rang for classes to begin, Freshmen were seen still roaming the halls looking for their classrooms. But, as the first week of school came to a close, the Freshmen were proving they could face the many challenges that high school has to offer.

During a routine stop at his locker, Eric Royer checks what books he needs for his next class.

Can I Have A Ride?

Several times after school the upperclassmen are asked this familiar question by the Freshmen. Finding transportation can become a sticky situation for many Freshmen since very few have a license or access to a car.

Those not fortunate enough to have a friend to give them a ride to school are forced to ride the "awful" buses that the school provides for transportation.

Mark Kopitke tries to look casual as he attempts to find his bus. For hundreds of students the "banana boat" is the cheapest and most convenient way home.

The Freshmen squad practices one last formation before performing at nationals.

Birdie Butler executes her jump with precision and great height with help from her teammates.

The Freshmen cheerleaders spent this past summer preparing for football games and future competitions.

In July the squad spent one week at Miami University for a cheerleading camp. When camp concluded, the Freshmen squad earned superior ribbons for its cheers and chants, and a first place trophy for its dance routine. At the Lucas County Fair in August the team received first place.

Along with promoting spirit for the football team, the squad began to prepare for the Universal Cheerleading Association Regional Competition. On December 6th the Freshmen traveled to Albion College in Michigan and faced tough competition from some of the best teams in the Midwest. The squad's hard work paid off once again when the first place trophy was brought home. This qualified the team to compete in the national competition held in Orlando, Florida.

The winter season proved to be the most difficult for the squad. In addition to giving outstanding basketball team support, the girls faced many hours of practice for nationals. The team not only met every night after school but also met on Saturdays to prepare for the tough competition at nationals.

Then on February 26th the team departed from Toledo for Orlando. When the girls arrived, they used every available minute to practice for Saturday's competition against teams from all over the country. The girls performed a wonderful routine but unfortunately did not place in the top five.

While much of the time in Orlando was spent preparing for the contest, the cheerleaders also managed to have some fun. They viewed the taping of the finals for E.S.P.N., attended a banquet hosted by Brian Bloom, and visited Sea World and Disney World. Miss Martishius, their advisor, said, "It was a very busy and tough year but very educational and certainly filled with incentives for years to come!"

The Freshmen worked hard and their dedication and spirit paid off. The cheerleaders did a great job that everyone at Springfield can be proud of.

The squad ends the flawless routine that earned them a first place trophy at the Lucas County Fair.

With luggage in hand, the Freshmen cheerleaders arrive at the Orlando Airport for the beginning of a trip they will never forget. A special thanks goes to the chaperons and Miss Martishius for all their patience and support.

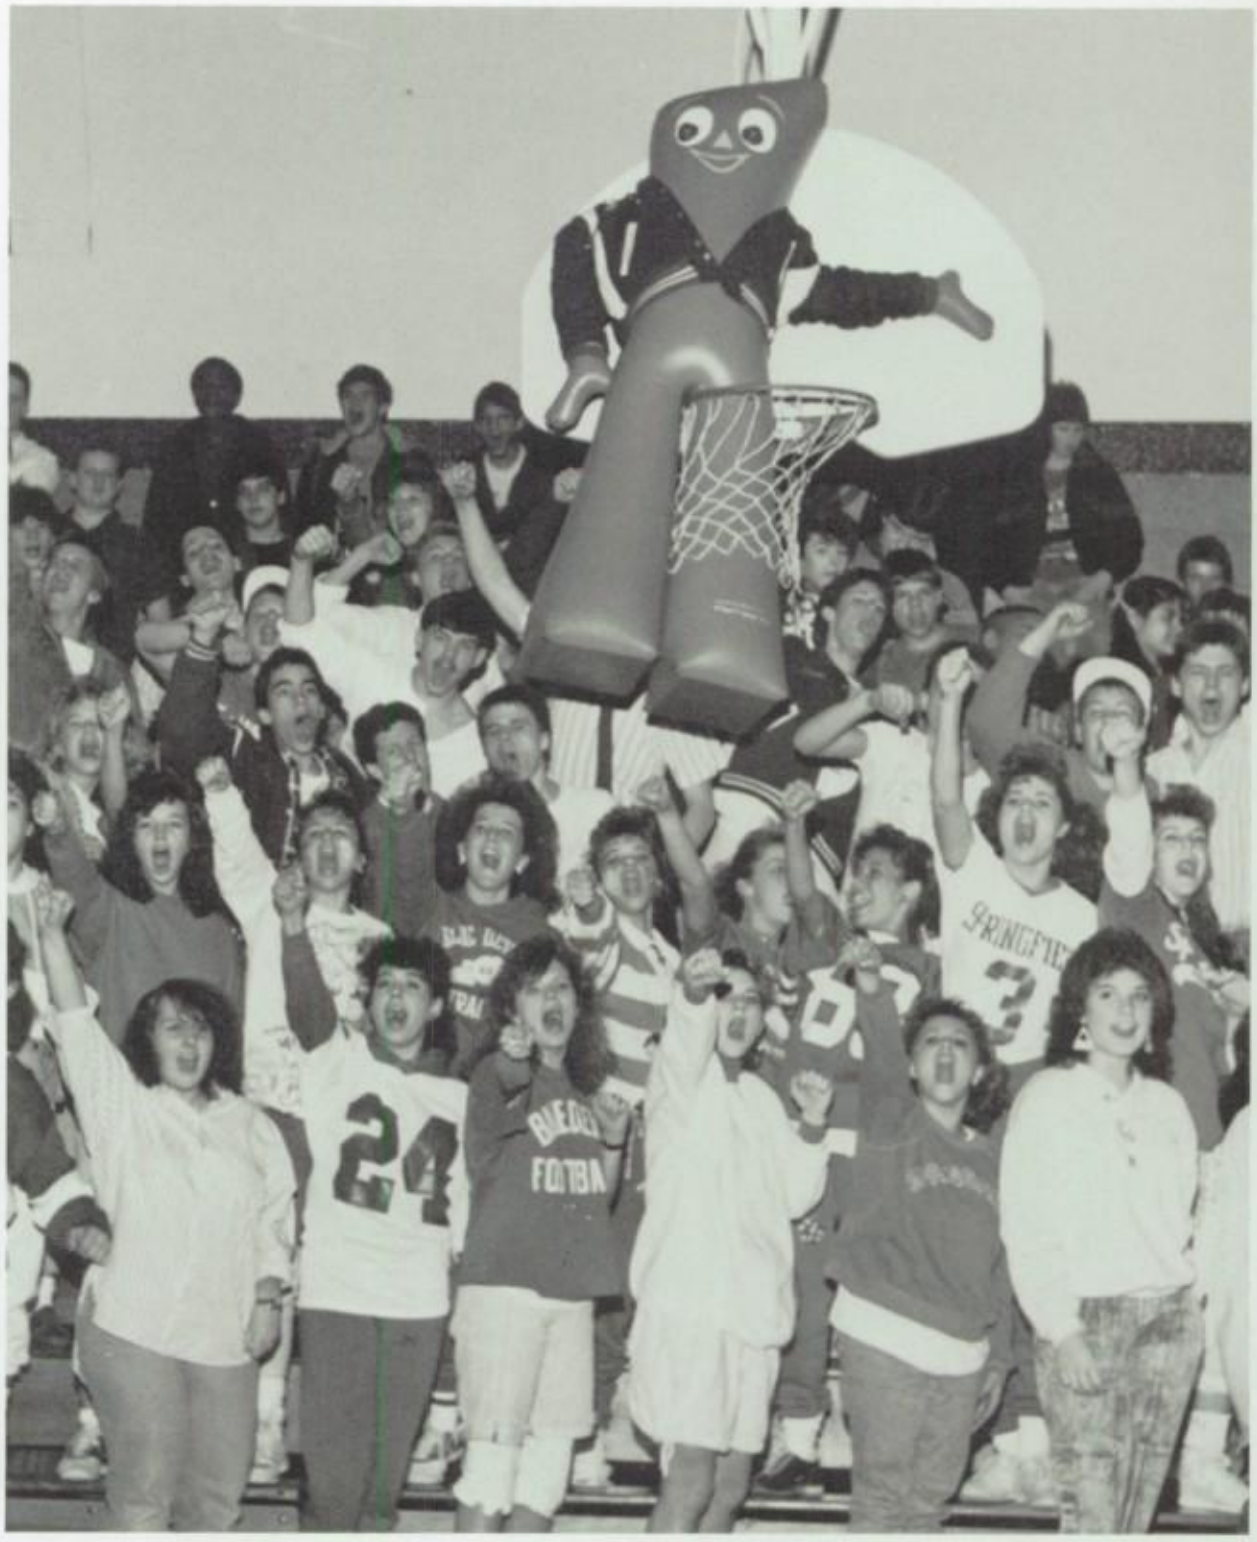
Spirit Shines For '91

The Freshman class showed its spirit for Springfield in many ways. At football games Freshmen blended their voices with those of the upperclassmen. Their enthusiasm carried through for basketball games and wrestling matches, too. Outstanding support was provided for their own Freshmen teams as well as varsity teams.

During Spirit Week the Freshman class proved they were true Blue Devil fans. Their organization and sportsmanship gave the upperclassmen a tough battle. Attendance at the Spirit Week games was high and a strong showing at the final assembly showed their determination to do their best.



The Freshmen, along with Gumby, let everyone know they were true Devil fans with their powerful cheers at the Spirit Week assembly.

The Freshmen show their strength in the tug-of-war competition as Mr. Reiser looks on with confidence.

CLASS OFFICERS

The Freshman class officers — Corri Morgan, Mr. Reiser (advisor), Melanie Lavy, Betsy Benyo, and Erica Hampton — have helped the class of '91 show their spirit and dedication throughout their first year of high school. In the beginning of the year a fund raiser was held to raise money for class projects. During Spirit Week Freshmen showed determination and much leadership. Everyone agrees that this year's Freshman class is off to a great start.

Encountering New Cultures

The Foreign Language Department at Springfield High School consists of Spanish, French, and German. Most of the students are enrolled in a foreign language so they can learn to communicate with a native speaker, and to obtain three years of a foreign language for college entrance.

Students enrolled in Spanish are involved in a variety of activities. They range from listening, speaking, and writing, to focusing on vocabulary skills, verb conjugations, and pronunciation. Students also enjoy singing and cooking. In class, students become acquainted with the cultural background of Spain and Latin America through slides and movies.

French classes are taught through vocabulary form and construction. There is a special emphasis placed on conversation and the use of the language in international diplomacy. Recently all the French students viewed the film Jean De Florette.

The newest addition to the department is German. German students are involved in speaking, reading, and writing. Periodically the students do short skits, play games, and have Essen Tags (eating days). During Spring Break thirty members of the German Club traveled to West Germany.

Miss Palatchi explains, "Learning a foreign language is like forming a bridge between cultures, allowing a person to understand and appreciate his new language."

Life After School

Grading papers, planning assignments, and creating tests and quizzes for students are just some of the activities which make up the rigorous daily schedule a teacher must follow. Spare time is sometimes scarce, so when it becomes available, teachers like to take full advantage. The teachers at Springfield High School spend their free time by participating in a number of different hobbies and activities which they enjoy.

Mr. Sheets and Miss Hense both enjoy creating art work for contests and exhibitions, as well as for fun, and Mr. Sheets actually owns his own art studio. Mrs. Ingersoll is currently living in a barn while her new home is being built in Michigan. Mr. Pease and Mrs. Rerucha both enjoy boating, and Mr. Fox owns a floral shop in Michigan. Mrs. Train spends some of her spare time judging swim meets, and Mrs. Maney travels long distances to preview new shopping malls whenever she finds the time!

Mrs. Beekley and her husband prepare to take off on a hot-air balloon ride.

Mrs. Jurenas beams with motherly pride as she stands with her son Steve. The teachers at school enjoy spending their free time with their families whenever possible.

A Shoulder to Lean On

"Teachers try to be really helpful. Sometimes they even stay after school to help you with a specific problem." — Sophomore Pam Reese.

Comments like these only hint at the amount of support the teaching staff bestows upon the students. Whether it's backing their pupils by attending the basketball games or taking an hour out of an already busy day to tutor a confused geometry student, the faculty never fails to let its pride in the school show.

Teachers not only teach, they also counsel, coach, parent, and "push." Often, they become friends who provide a sympathetic ear and, if needed, a shoulder to cry on.

But Mrs. Krieger explains that, "Many times the most important thing a teacher does is to just let the student know that somebody cares."

Not leaving things to chance, Beth Clinger asks Mr. Adams to clarify one of the questions on her anatomy test. This year, students dissected cats to assist them with their regular classwork.

To Have And To Hold

Wedding bells — they rang through the halls and chimed in the ears of each and every student. Four faculty members, two of them together, took that famous stroll down the aisle during the 1987-'88 school year.

Mr. Maney and Mrs. Szabo (now Mrs. Maney) both teach here at SHS. But, even though they work in the same building, Mr. Maney says that, "Because we teach unrelated courses, we never really see each other, except for seventh period conference that we have together."

On September twenty-fifth Mr. Reiser, resident basketball coach and phys-ed teacher, married his high school sweetheart Jeanne Kryder. For their honeymoon the Reisers traveled to Niagra Falls for three days, but, explains Mr. Reiser, "We'll be going to the Bahamas over spring break for a real honeymoon!"

Mrs. Krieger and Jack Chapman met in August at an OEA Leadership Seminar at Ohio University. The seventh grade math teacher from Reynoldsburg is, as Mrs. Krieger proudly states, "The best thing that's ever happened to me!"

On March eleventh Mrs. Chapman said her last good-byes and left for her new home. Says Junior Susan Stack, "She was always there to listen and you knew she really cared. Mrs. Krieger was a special part of SHS and it's going to be strange not seeing her."

Mrs. Smith visits El Greco's home in Toledo, Spain. While at S.H.S. Mrs. Smith spent many summers traveling abroad, touring and attending classes.

A Fond Farewell

Students who had not already heard the news were very surprised when they returned to school and found Mrs. Smith had resigned to go into the restaurant business with her husband Jim. Corky's officially opened in September. According to Mrs. Smith she is happy with her new venture but admits it's a lot of hard work.

Senora Corcoran-Smith came to the high school from the junior high in the fall of 1974. Always popular among students and staff alike, Mrs. Smith exemplified true Blue Devil spirit. During her fourteen years at S.H.S., Mrs. Smith coached volleyball and softball, served as class advisor, and advised the Spanish Club and Homecoming. She was also chairman of the Foreign Language Department for fourteen years. In 1984 Mrs. Smith was named Teacher of the Year.

When asked about Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Krieger and Miss Bowers, her colleagues and good friends, agreed, "Senora Smith gave so much of herself to this school and the students. She took kids to Spain and Mexico and was always available to a student in need. Plus, she was a lot of fun!"

We wish Mrs. Corcoran-Smith much success in her new career, but we want her to know she is missed very much.

Around The World On A Teacher's Salary

After a long year of putting a great deal of time and effort into the education of the students who pass through their classrooms and into maturity, the teachers at Springfield High School like to reward themselves for their efforts. One way that they refresh and revitalize themselves for the coming year is by travelling to various places around the globe.

One of Mrs. Train's recent vacations was a skiing trip with friends to Colorado. Both Mr. Dukate and Mrs. Jurenas took trips to Toronto last summer. Mr. Pease enjoys fishing in Canada every summer. Las Vegas has been a vacation spot for Mr. Hoover and Mrs. Nawrocki. Last summer, Mr. Brillhart visited Glacier Park. Mr. Cunningham has visited Hilton Head Island, and both Miss Bowers and Mrs. Rerucha have vacationed in the Bahamas. Mrs. Irons and Miss Archer have both travelled to Atlantic City. Mr. Caldwell recently caught some rays on the Hawaiian Islands, while Miss White decided to sample the southern hospitality of New Orleans. Both Mrs. Krieger and Mrs. Abrams have recently enjoyed the warmth of Arizona, and Mrs. Beekley travelled to Alaska last summer. And then there is Mr. Van Driesen. He has been to Africa, China, Japan, Australia, and soon will have visited all seven continents after he takes a trip to Antarctica next summer.

Mr. Maney stands in front of a typical Irish cottage. He visited Ireland in 1984.

Mrs. Beekley stands in front of a sign in Skagway, Alaska, one of the stops during her trip there last summer.

A Helping Hand

Mrs. Irons waits patiently as Jenifer Myers checks on Ms. Archer in the dressing rooms. Clothes shopping was top priority for many people in the weeks before school.

For almost every student the local mall was more than a place to shop. Some of the more popular activities included catching the latest movie or using up extra weekend hours with friends.

Ted, Mom, Bran, Bird, and Rox

Dearest Andrea,
Congratulations on your graduation! In the future, when you reflect upon the past, remember the love, and hopefully those memories will overpower the ones not so great. God Bless you in all your future endeavors.

Love you,
Mom and Dad

Dear Leslie,
Roses are red, Violets are blue. We sure got lucky, When God gave us you.

Love,
Mom and Dad

Dear Kim,
"Devil with the Blue Dress On!"

Love,
Mom and Dad

To The Class of '88,
My hope for each of you is that you find happiness and success in the years ahead. You are a great class — one of Springfield's finest.

Love,
Mrs. (Krieger) Chapman

In Memoriam

"A butterfly lights beside us
like a sunbeam.
And for a brief moment
its glory and beauty belong to our world.
But then it flies on again,
and though we wish
it could have stayed,
we feel so lucky to have seen it."

DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION CLUBS OF AMERICA

Our Final Point

The Homecoming game against Anthony Wayne, the prom held downtown, research papers and oral reports. Laughing with friends and sharing secret loves. All part of our high school lives. The 87-88 school year was overflowing with excitement and enthusiasm. What was hot and what wasn't hot played a big role in how we dressed, spoke and acted. Whether trying to be unique or trying to fit in with a certain group of friends, we all MADE A POINT of living life to the fullest.

(below) Senior Bobby Bragg wonders "So what's your point?"

Colophon

"Making Our Point," the 1988 Trident, volume 20, Springfield High School, was printed by Hunter Publishing Company, Winston-Salem, N.C., with Mr. Doug Bynum as their representative. Eighteen staff members met everyday fifth hour with the help of advisors Mrs. Krieger, Mrs. Daniels and Mrs. Dussel.

The 1988 Trident is 7¾ by 10 inch book with 200 pages. It has a press run of 625 with 16 pages of color and an 8 page supplement. The typestyle was Palatino Solid with Snell Roundhand used for the Senior section and for the DECA advertisement.

Senior and underclassmen portraits were taken by H.A. Powell Studios along with sport and club pictures.

The Trident staff would like to thank all administrators, teachers, and students of Springfield who helped with compiling and distributing the book.
